Nicole M. Allcock, Pharm.D., BCPS, is Clinical Assistant Professor at the University of Missouri–Kansas City (UMKC) School of Pharmacy, Columbia Satellite Program. Her practice site is in the medicine intensive care unit at the University of Missouri Hospital.

Allcock is a member of the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists (ASHP), the Missouri Society of Health-System Pharmacists (MSHP), the American College of Clinical Pharmacy, and the Society of Critical Care Medicine. She is currently serving in her fourth year as a member of the ASHP House of Delegates and her third year as a member of the ASHP Council on Therapeutics. She is also Executive Director of the MSHP Research and Education Foundation and Faculty Advisor for the UMKC Student Society of Health-System Pharmacists.

Allcock has previously served ASHP as a member of both the Student Forum Executive Committee and the New Practitioners Forum Executive Committee. In addition, she was formerly Director of the Division of Professional Affairs and founding Chairman of the New Practitioners Network for the Illinois Council of Health-System Pharmacists (IHP). Allcock is the recipient of the 2004 IHP New Practitioners Leadership Award and the 2004 and 2005 IHP President's Awards.

Allcock was born and raised in Southeast Missouri and received her Doctor of Pharmacy degree in 2002 from the University of Missouri–Kansas City. She completed a specialty residency in Critical Care and Infectious Diseases at the Kansas City Veterans Affairs Medical Center. She was the clinical specialist in the medicine intensive care unit at the University of Chicago Hospitals before joining the faculty of her alma mater in 2006.

Allcock and her husband, Dr. Darren Allcock, are expecting their first child in early January 2008. They are members of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, where she serves on the Programs Committee for the newly forming Columbia Catholic High School. In her spare time, Allcock enjoys playing alto saxophone in the Columbia Community Band.
